Skagway-Whitehorse Railway World's Toughest To Run

By JACK BIRD

(Last of a series on the Northland)

It was early in the morning, and quite dark, I remembered, when I first saw the town of Wrangell, on Wrangell Island.

The mountains all around—for I was taking the Inside Passage—were a blue-black with white peaks and ridges. The whole top line of those ridges had stood out sharp and clear against a light blue sky that was full of stars.

I recalled how cold and silent it had looked up there on those mountain tops of ice and snow, and there was a feeling of endless time about it all. Along the shore there had been the sound of many birds. Although it was mid-November, it seemed like spring to hear the continual twittering and chirping of bird life.

GREAT COUNTRY

Alaska means "Great Country" and that is just what it is — a great country—and the last American frontier. The capital is Juneau. Coming upon it at night, from the sea, it is a mass of yellow lights that at a distance seem to twinkle.

This town of 7,500 is built along the narrow shore-line and sides of a mountain. On the steep flanks of the mountain, at one end of the town, is a big gold mine, all lit up, with heaps of rock and dirt right down to the water's edge.

Skagway is at the north end of the Lynn Canal. As the ship draws up to the dock you notice on your right that the whole face of the high gray cliff is one mass of ship's names, and dates, crests and house flags. They are all painted in colors, and are expertly done. It is called a ship's register.

Skagway today is only a ghost of its former self. In its heyday, when the '98ers were going over White Pass to the Klondike, there were some 10,000 people in Skagway, and they had 90 saloons. Today there are only 650 people and two saloons—or cocktail bars, as they are really called.

PACK TRAIN INN

As you walk through the town you see on every hand the old buildings of the days of '98 all boarded up, and sadly in need of paint—if they ever were painted in the first place, which looks doubtful. The old original saloon, called "The Pack Train Inn," still stands and is still in use.

I went in and had a look at its bar. But all the trappings of former times are gone, although one may see them, as I did, in the private museum of one of the two hotels. Both these hotels are run by the same woman. In this bar of the Pack Train, Robert W. Service had drunk, and Frank Gotch, one-time heavyweight champion wrestler of the world, and Tex Rickard, the promoter, and other notables.

COST MILLIONS

From Skagway I took the train to Whitehorse, 110 miles away. Because so much of this roadbed was carved and blasted out of the solid rock of the sides of the mountains, it cost approximately ten million dollars to build it. Finished in 1900, it is called the toughest railroad in the world to operate.

It is wild and rugged, this pass, and three engines pulled our 12 cars over the nearly 2,900-foot hump, with its Dead Horse Gulch down below. Although it was warm and raining at Skagway, there was snow on the ground up at the pass and more was coming down.

Our train travelled along the whole shore-line of Lake Bennett, which is a 27-mile-long body of pale green water that lies between two rows of brown mountains that slope back from its edge. Half this lake is in northern British Columbia, the other half is in the Yukon.

Lake Bennet today is a scene of quiet grandeur and beauty, but in the days of '98 it was a hive of industry. As many as 5,000 men were there in tents, for here it was that the stampeders, having crossed the pass, built their boats and rafts and scows to take them the rest of the way by water to the Klondike.

ONLY A CHURCH LEFT

Today the only thing standing of those former times is the little Presbyterian church. It is only a shell of a building, with log slabs nailed to its frame-work. I don't think there ever was a wooden floor in it, for the floor is all sand; no platform up front and no pulpit and no inside wall, just the bare ribs of the frame. The skin of some animal hangs on one wall, and some old dog harness and long dog sleighs and several beds clutter up the place.

I remember wondering, as I stood there in its one main room, how many of the stampeders in their mad rush for the gold fields, ever stopped long enough to worship here.

(The end)

Once upon a time—according to Harz mountain legend—a poor miner's wife was gathering pine cones in the forest. It was just before Christmas, her husband was ill, and there was no money in the house for food. So, she gathered the cones and sold them to the villagers for kindling—obtaining enough for the day's necessities.

One morning while she was looking for such cones, a little imp jumped out of a huge fir tree.

"Here, here are the biggest, driest cones of all! Take these," he shrieked, jumping up and down excitedly.

Suddenly, there was such a shower of cones that the poor woman was frightened. She tried to run away, but could not move until the little imp had filled her basket. And, having started home, the basket grew heavier and heavier—she wished the elf hadn't disappeared, he might have helped her.

When she finally reached her hut, she called the children to help carry the basket inside. Emptying the basket, they found that every cone was made of solid silver.

Commemorating these legendary silver cones, gilded pine cones are sold in modern stores, to decorate our homes—to burn and crackle gaily in our Christmas fires.

Pagan Rites Basis Of Many Customs

Strange as it may seem, most American Christmas customs stem largely from Pagan rites practiced long before the birth of Christ.

The custom of exchanging gifts is one of the few that springs from the Christian era. Christmas candles, bonfires and Yule logs arise from the heathen festivals observing the winter solstice, December 21, when the days begin to lengthen. That was a time of great rejoicing for ancient sun worshippers who built bonfires to give strength to the "winter sun-god."

Pre-Christian Romans ornamented their homes with green boughs and flowers for the Feast of Saturnalia which began December 19. Druids gathered mistletoe for that season, while ancient Saxons used holly, ivy and bay. Modern mistletoe and holly wreaths come from those peoples.

Christmas trees, too, spring from the ancient German days when Germanic tribes made sacrifices to the sacred oak tree of Odin. When the missionary St. Boniface traveled to Germany in the Eighth Century and saw these celebrations he persuaded the natives to substitute a fir tree for the oak and to adorn it in a tribute to the Christ Child.

During the Middle Ages the entire Christmas season was celebrated in equal fervor with that now shown on Christmas day. In some lands the celebration lasted from December 24 to January 6—Twelfth Night—and in others from December 21 to February 2. By the year 1644, Christmas in England had become such a wild orgy that the Puritans forbade its celebration by law.

Most powerful weapon in the fight against tuberculosis is the X-ray. Christmas Seal dollars are still needed to buy more X-ray equipment. If you haven't sent your, do it now.

Mistaken Efficiency

REDLANDS, Calif.—The city is out $35 because one of its refuse collectors guessed wrong. An auto supply firm scoured southern California for a certain type of automobile fender. It finally was delivered, but after closing hours. Early next morning, the rubbish truck came by. Leaning against a door was the fender. But it was too big to get in the truck. So the trucker carefully ran over it several times to reduce its size. The city council heard the story, agreed to foot the bill.

Illustrating a Point

DETROIT.—Patrolman John Major and Roland Knight of suburban Ferndale noticed a car parked in a wooded, secluded area early in the morning.

"Don't you know this is dangerous?" they asked the boy and girl occupying it. "There might be men lurking around here with guns."

Major flashed his light around in a grand gesture. The beam showed a man crouched near the car and carrying a revolver. The prowler was held.

Grave Error

TULSA, Okla.—A grave error was committed by an automobile burglar. He slashed a hole in the parked car's top and fled with a handsome suit of men's clothing. But there was a slight catch. They were burial garments—false front affairs with zippers up the back.

Wallis' 'September' Rolls at Paramount

HOLLYWOOD. — Hal Wallis recently put "September", his 16th production for Paramount, before the camera with a cast headed by Joan Fontane and Joseph Cotten under direction of William Dieterle.

Exteriors for the romantic drama were filmed in Italy with Fontaine and Cotten appearing in sequences filmed in Rome, Naples, Florence, at the ruins of Pompeii and on the Isle of Capri.

Françoise Rosay, the noted French character actress, who scored heavily in the English production of Somerset Maugham's "Quartet," reports to Wallis this week for the start of her role.

Tons of Offspring

But here the true hearts are.)

The Christ-child lay on Mary's heart,
His hair was like a fire.

But here the world's desire.)

The Christ-child stood at Mary's knee,

And all the stars looked down.

Magi Were Priests Of Persian Religion

Along about this time of the year there's a lot written, said and sung about the Magi. Just who were the Magi, anyway?

The Magi were priests of an ancient Persian religion called Zoroastrianism. The Greek historian Herodotus gives a very favorable account of them and their influence in a society which existed four hundred years before Christ's birth.

According to Herodotus the Magi were powerful in public and private affairs. They conducted the education of the young princes, and were in constant attendance upon the king as counselors.

This description of a Magi appears in the sacred writing of Zoroaster: "Thou shouldst call him priest, who sits the whole night thru and yearns for holy wisdom that enables man to stand upon death's bridge fearless and with happy heart, the wisdom whereby he attains the holy and glorious world of paradise."

The three Magi, or Wise Men, who followed the Star of Bethlehem and brought gifts of gold, frankincense and myrrh to the Christ child remain nameless, but they were the first to recognize the importance of the birth of the Prince of Peace.

One Scotch factory now produces more than 2,100,000 alarm clocks a year.

They look like any other chickens, except that they are almost all fuselage and no wings. ## Healthful Ventilation

In every office and workroom warmth, moisture and used-up air . . . not to mention dust and tobacco smoke . . . are being given off all the time by the occupants. Unless the air is kept moving it becomes stagnant and oppressive and good, accurate work becomes difficult. Good ventilation is essential to the health of workers. A well ventilated workroom soon pays for itself in increased production.

Fun And Games

Children need plenty of freedom for open-air games and sports. They need to run, jump, skip and climb if their bodies are to develop healthfully and their minds to mature normally.

Not Dead, Just Hungry

EVANSVILLE, Ind. — "I'll never live to bet back to Evansville," said a note found on a road near Worthington, Ind. The name of Mrs. Allane Griffith of Evansville was found on a scrap of paper near by.

Mrs. Griffith, awakened at her home by apprehensive officers, explained that she had written the note to a friend at a convention at Indianapolis when it ran past lunch time and she was becoming famished.

Then, motoring home, she had decided to clean out her purse along the highway.

Tuberculosis never rests or takes a holiday. It must be fought not only at Christmas time but all year round. Your Christmas Seals will have been only bits of colored paper unless you send in your donation to help save a life.

SANTA CLAUS is one of the most precious wonders of childhood. American mothers overwhelmingly agree that he should be portrayed as the spirit of generosity, kindness, and gift-giving.

Although the modern conception of Santa Claus is American, the Spirit of Santa Claus is neither modern nor American. The real Saint Nicholas lived in Asia Minor and ever since his death in 343 stories concerning him have been repeated around the firesides of Europe.

The children of Lapland and northern climates naturally picture Santa dressed in fur and dashing through the snow in a reindeer-drawn sleigh. But in central Europe, St. Nicholas first appeared on his liturgical feast day, December 6, and he was a thin, austere churchman who rode a mule and carried gifts for good children and a bundle of birch rods with which to switch the naughty.

Under Dutch influence St. Nicholas lost his solemnity. The Dutch colonists who brought him to America were very practical people and they decided against two gift-giving days in the same month. Thus, Sinter Klass started coming around only at Christmas time.

Santa Gets a Sleigh.

Eventually, ancient legends were woven into American Christmas traditions. Washington Irving sent St. Nicholas flying through Christmas skies in a reindeer-drawn sleigh in 1809; Dr. Clement Moore's poem "The Night Before Christmas," written in 1822, gave Santa "a little round belly that shook when he laughed, like a bowl full of jelly;" and a series of drawings in 1868 by Thomas Nast added much to the traditional pictures and appearance of the Santa we see today.

In every youngster's life there comes the time when he begins to suspect that the various bewiskered gentlemen, so numerous during this season, are not exactly the real Santa Claus. Wise parents advance the "helper" theory as soon as they are asked questions and teach their children to make the Christmas dreams of less fortunate tots and their families come true.

Thus, the real Santa Claus isn't just myth or legend. He is the Spirit of Christmas who lives in the sparkling eyes of children and in the hearts of all grown-ups who strive for peace and good will among men.

OPEN LETTER TO SANTA CLAUS

Dear Santa:

This year I'm not asking something for myself but I'd be grateful if you would give:

THE WORLD—Continued peace.

THE UNITED NATIONS—Power and courage to make it possible.

RUSSIA AND THE WESTERN NATIONS—Forebearance, tolerance and the desire to understand one another.

STATESMEN AND ALL IN PUBLIC OFFICE—Wisdom, strength and the incentive to serve their fellowman.

THE LITTLE MAN—More of the good things of life.

THE FAMILY—Security and the joy of home fellowship.

EACH ONE OF US—More human kindness, as well as faith in the rightness and fitness of things.

Last, but not least, bestow the benison of peace which flows from love of God upon my fellowmen. I ask these gifts in the name of Him for whom the day is named. If you could grant them, then the spirit of Christmas would bless each day of the year.

Sincerely yours,

EVERYMAN.

P.S.—You may take back the A-bomb. It is too dangerous a toy to play with.

LET'S COMPARE FACTS

The energetic campaign being waged by the Yellowhead Highway Association to publicize the virtues of the Yellowhead Pass route as an alternative to the Kicking Horse Pass route for the Trans-Canada highway is motivated by something more than regional pride. It arises out of a real fear that the value of the Trans-Canada highway may be largely lost if the best route is not selected.

While the rivalry between Edmonton and Calgary, Jasper and Banff, undoubtedly provides part of the basis for this controversy over routes, it is not an important part of it. Proponents of the Yellowhead route are mostly serious-minded citizens who, as a result of personal experience with the "Big Bend" route, seriously doubt if it will provide the satisfactory "all-weather" route to the coast which one would expect the Trans-Canada highway to be.

Their arguments against the "Big Bend" route are too important to be brushed aside lightly. First of all they claim that the route is the most costly of the alternatives. Secondly they claim that the country through which it passes is so rugged in spots that it will be impossible to build a road up to Trans-Canada standards in many places.

Thirdly, and most important of all, they claim that due to heavy snowfalls and the physical nature of the country through which it will pass, it will be impossible, regardless of expense, to keep it open to traffic during the winter months.

Now the Trans-Canada highway is going to cost approximately $300,000,000. This isn't peanuts. And while it may be worth that much money to have a highway which will enable Canadians of different provinces to travel freely from one part of Canada to the other without having to leave the country for at least part of the journey, it is too much money to be spent if it fails to achieve its object — if the road is to be only a summer road, or a "fair weather road."

We agree that the provincial premiers are probably better able, if they want to, to choose the route than is Ottawa. But we do feel that, to insure Canadians get the most value for their money out of this highway, the Dominion Government should offer the provincial premiers every possible assistance to insure that the best route is selected. We feel that they should offer them the services of a fact-finding commission which could investigate the charges made by the Yellowhead Highway Association, and other details.

After all, the members of the Yellowhead Highway Association, like all Canadians are more interested in getting the best route, wherever it may be, than they are in any particular route. The facts would settle the argument. The facts would stop all dissenters and sectional cheer-leaders.

Let's have a commission to find the facts.

CALL TO TRADE

The stiff sales resistance presented by the British Government to our efforts to sell eggs, cheese and other farm commodities is undoubtedly caused by their shortage of dollars coupled with an improving trade situation in the sterling area. It may also be the prelude to a demand that Canada buy more British goods. It is a call to Canada to trade with Great Britain instead of just selling our products for dollars we turn right around and spend south of the line. It's a "we can't do business with you unless you do business with us" argument. If we're going to hold our overseas markets we'll have to buy more British goods.

Scriptural Meditations

"When Christ ascended to heaven, the sense of His presence was still with His followers. It was a personal presence, full of love and light. Jesus, the Saviour, who had walked and talked and prayed with them, who had spoken hope and comfort to their hearts, had, while the message of peace was still upon His lips, been taken up from them into heaven, and the tones of His voice had come back to them, as the cloud of angels received Him—'Lo I am with you always, even unto the end of the world,' Matt. 28:20. He had ascended to heaven in the form of humanity. They knew that He was before the throne of God, their Friend and Saviour still; that His sympathies were unchanged; that He was still identified with suffering humanity. He was presenting before God the merits of His own blood, showing His wounded hands and feet, in remembrance of the price He had paid for His redeemed. They knew that He had ascended to heaven to prepare places for them, and that He would come again, and take them to Himself."

—"Steps to Christ."

CAN YOU SMILE?

Lady (reading paper) — Well, well, I never knew that our firemen were so childish. It says here that the firemen played on the ruins for some hours.

Mother — Why didn't you call me when Mr. Clive kissed you?
Daughter — He threatened me.
Mother — Threatened?
Daughter — Yes, not to kiss me any more.

"How long must I wear my bathing suit?" asked the young woman at a strange beach.
"Until you get back to the bath house, at least," answered the information clerk.

As the class had been told to write an essay on Lincoln—one of the pupils wrote — "Abraham Lincoln was born on a bright summer day, the 12th of February, 1809. He was born in a log cabin that he had helped his father to build."

"What does your husband like for dinner?" asked the young bride, who was looking for advice.

Experienced housewife. "Most anything I haven't got in the pantry."

A city girl visiting her uncle on the farm was watching a cow chewing her cud.

"Pretty fine cow, that," said her uncle as he came by.

"Yes," said the girl, "but doesn't it cost a lot to keep her in chewing gum?"

"Daughter," said dad sternly, "I hope when you are with that young man there is none of this petting and kissing foolishness."

"Oh, be yourself," retorted daughter, "We're not married, and you can't expect us to spend all our time scrapping when we are together, the way you and mother do."

Ghosts of Christmas Past

Of all the good resolutions I ever made, the best of them have to do with Christmas.

I once determined to keep an address book of all old friends (and new ones, too). Then ten days before Christmas I would send each of them a card. It doesn't hurt a bit to send out cards early, either, because that obliges friends of bygone years to send you greeting cards in return, to save face.

The old address book, properly indexed, is still lying around somewhere. I could probably find it, too, with just a little effort. But friends in Toronto, Hamilton, Ottawa, Detroit, Chicago, Winnipeg, Brandon and Calgary will have to be left to the old hit-or-miss system I use now. A good resolution discarded. So much for one venerable relic of Ghost of Christmas past.

T. W. Pue

OTHER CHRISTMASSES

Though for practical purposes I may have forgotten my friends of Christmas Past, I cannot help but recall events that come to mind simply because they are associated with the Christmas season.

It took a ghost to remind Scrooge of his lonely self in a lonely school room, as a cheerless boy in a cheerless Christmas atmosphere. I well recall the first Christmas I spent away from home and family, in Chicago in 1935. I remember buying a goose at a meat market down near the Edgewater Beach Hotel. A few days later I left Chicago and motored to Sarnia, Ont. I felt quite alone there as I had to spend New Year's alone in Sarnia.

PITY THIS POOR GUY

Whenever I went to Sarnia I would make a trip across the river on the ferry and spend a few hours in Port Huron. I could walk down Port Huron's Main Street and nearly everyone would say hello to me, a perfect stranger in the Port city.

There is (or was) some poor, unfortunate man there who looked like me. One chap even rushed up to me, shook my hand and then, I suppose, my vacant, expressionless countenance had its effect and he dropped my hand like something limp and lifeless and his voice trailed off "no—no—you're n-ott—"

That was Christmas Past, 1935.

IN TORONTO, 1938

There was Christmas, 1938, when, in Toronto we witnessed the result of a head-on collision of an automobile and a street car on Bloor Street West. The ambulances were so busy that Christmas eve in Toronto it took two hours for them to call and pick up the broken, bruised and bleeding body of the woman who lay on the sidewalk moaning and groaning. She had been hurtled through the windshield of the family car. Her husband was standing over her, helplessly and piteously crying.

AT THE COAST, 1940

I remember, too, Christmas of 1940. Mrs. Pue and I spent Christmas at the west coast. It was the first time I had seen it rain on Christmas Day.

SANTA CLAUS, TOO, 1921

I vividly recollect the faith I had in Santa Claus. I remember being sent up to the front of the church, by my mother, to take delivery of a gift for my baby sister, Doris. When I got there the fuzzy old fellow embarrassed me beyond measure by asking "are you Doris?"

I had been told he drove up to the church door in his reindeer sleigh, and as soon as the concert was over I rushed outside to see the outfit but it was gone. Santa Claus, himself, told me he had left the herd downtown. In a livery stable, I suppose.

A few minutes later Santa Claus disappeared and my father miraculously showed up to take his family home. I could never understand why he hadn't attended the concert.

HOME FOR CHRISTMAS

Christmas time, I think, is a time of retreat. A time when we fold up the tents of work, of business, of journalism and retreat to the atmosphere of home and family. I think nearly everyone wants to be home for Christmas.

So I'm going home for Christmas. For it is at home where I can stir up best the nostalgic memories of Christmas Past.

Canada's Sugar Bowl

(From the Christian Science Monitor)

Once, Alberta's deep south was in serious danger of becoming a dust bowl. Today it is known as Canada's "Sugar Bowl" with a $6,500,000 sugar beet industry.

Dr. A. E. Palmer, Utah-born superintendent of the Dominion Experimental Farm at Lethbridge, said, "It may be that other crops would be better suited to it," then revealed that beet sugar shipments out of the area jumped 26 per cent in 1947 over the previous year, with the three prairie provinces — Alberta, Saskatchewan, and Manitoba — taking 97 per cent, the rest going to Ontario.

Processing is done in two factories, one at Raymond, the other at Picture Butte. A third, at Taber, is scheduled to start processing in the fall of 1950. Annual production at present approaches 130,000,000 pounds, grown on more than 30,000 acres of irrigated land, filling 10 per cent of Canada's requirements.

The story of the sugar beet in Alberta parallels the story of irrigation, for controlling water supply is one of the major factors in successful sugar beet production there. The others are deep, rich soil, plenty of sunshine; adequate frost-free periods and experienced beet growers. Southern Alberta has all these, with the result that, besides the 130,000,000 pounds of sugar, it produces annually some 60,000 lambs and 20,000 cattle fattened on beet pulp and betalasses, by-products of the industry.

Growers are making insistent demands for more irrigation. The greatest possibility for the future lies in the $20,000,000 St. Mary-Milk River development currently undertaken by the provincial and federal governments. Labor, too, is vital, since a great deal of hand labor is still required in the harvest in spite of the advance of mechanical aids. Southern Alberta has a satisfactory supply of workers.

Alberta's sugar beet industry dates back to the turn of the century. New settlers came in under a colonization program. Jesse Knight, a Utah Mormon millionaire, with his two sons, erected the first factory. It failed a few years later. Not until 1925 did interest grow again. A United States firm built a factory at Raymond. A success, this venture eventually became the property of a Canadian company. The second plant went up at Picture Butte in 1936 and the third one, to open next year, will be the last word in sugar beet processing design with a slicing capacity of 1,700 tons a day.

The new plant, with the resultant increase in sugar production, will look for its markets to a probable increase in Canadian sugar consumption, and a possible influx of immigrants to the west.

Fires Still Burn In South Edmonton

Many complaints have been received by the Fire Department about the burning of garbage and trash in the lanes along Whyte avenue. According to the fire inspector it is against the law to burn garbage. The sixty-four dollar question that the business men are asking is "What will we do with our garbage?"

One business man pays to have one bag of garbage removed each week, and the city collectors pick up the usual collection each week. However, this does not begin to keep the lanes clean. Now that the City Fathers have the question of garbage collection before them, South Edmonton business men wish they would go all the way and make arrangements for the removal of garbage from the business sections more frequently. It is against the law to burn garbage, but it is still being done.

GREETINGS FOR CHRISTMAS

To Our Readers:

On behalf of the Beiseker Times we their agents wish to extend to our friends and neighbors a very Merry Christmas. We thank you for bearing with us through all our errors and blunders in print, all our omissions and commissions (and not the jingling variety).

We'd like to thank those people who were kind enough to bring news to us for publication and especially Bill Tidy who has used his own time and talents to make the weekly Lions corner possible.

Also the Meidenger sisters, Elaine and Viola who have written the school news for us in High School Hi-Lights.

Then their has been the C.Y.O. news by Mary Cox to be appreciated and more recently the Leveand news for which we are grateful to Mr. John Leiske and Mrs. Sam Leiske. These people receive no remuneration and have done a very faithful job. We do appreciate their help and know that the readers join with us when we say "Thanks, Friends."

To the local firms who by their weekly advertising, the paper has been made possible. We say again, "Thank You." You are progressive businessmen in a progressive little centre.

So to one and all may you find this Christmas one of the happiest you have experienced and may the New Year bring many good things to you.

Your Agents,
The Beiseker Times.

Industrial Index At Post-War Peak

Industrial activity in Canada during October equalled last December's post-war peak, according to the November letter of the Canadian Bank of Commerce.

Issued towards the end of each month, the bank's letter summarizes Canadian conditions for the previous month. With 1937, the 100 base, the index for October reached 162.

Seasonal influences, a more regular flow of most raw materials, greater efficiency and a revival in certain lines following a moderate summer recession, accounted for the upturn.

Towards the end of the month, however, some Canadian plants were beginning to feel the effect of the U.S.A. steel strike. Work stoppage occurred in the General Motors Oshawa plant. It was doubtful, therefore, if November would continue to maintain October's high.

The report deals in some detail with Canada's forest wealth and products.

Some Safety Rules For Holiday Season

It only takes a small amount of carelessness to turn the joyful Christmas holiday into a tragic event. The Christmas tree is the danger spot. There are a few simple precautions that will assure a safe and merry Christmas.

Never burn real candles on your tree.

Don't risk using frayed cords and broken plugs.

Avoid placing powerful lamp bulbs near fancy ornaments, synthetic materials, paper or cotton.

Don't go away and leave your tree lighted.

Be very careful when smoking around Christmas package wrapping material.

Secure the tree by wires to the wall so that tiny tots will not be able to bump or pull it over.

Christmas Seals are a protection against tuberculosis. Send your contribution and use Seals on all your holiday mail.

Don't forget to send in your Christmas Seal donation.

The minstrels played their Christmas tune.
Tonight beneath my cottage eaves;
While, smitten by a lofty moon,
The encircling laurels, thick with leaves,
Gave back a rich and dazzling sheen,
That overpowered their natural green.

Through hill and valley every breeze
Had sunk to rest with folded wings;
Keen was the air, but could not freeze.
Nor check the music of the strings;
So stout and hardy were the band
That scraped the chords with strenuous hand.

And who but listened? till was paid
Respect to every inmate's claim;
The greeting given, the music played
In honor of each household name,
Duly pronounced with lusty call,
And "merry Christmas" wished to all!

—William Wordsworth.

The bell, the world's oldest and simplest musical instrument, is the world's most universal Yuletide symbol. Each nation has its individual symbols of Christmas, but the bell will be found somewhere in the traditions of every one.

Bell authorities claim that Pope Sabinianus gave us the first church bells in 604. The custom has grown until there is no use of church bells so widely known as the ringing of the chimes to herald the advent of the birth of Christ.

In recent years the ancient bell has "grown up" into the carillon, a highly sensitive instrument on which Christmas carols seem to find their most perfect expression.

Quality Potatoes From Muck Soils

Although potatoes of low cooking quality are frequently grown on muck soils, it is quite possible to produce a crop of excellent cooking and keeping quality on this soil type.

At the Dominion Experimental Substation for muck lands, at Ste. Clothide, Quebec, a large number of experiments in connection with the nutrition of the potato crop have been conducted during the past ten years. These experiments have shown that without exception good quality on this soil type is associated with high yield, and high yields are obtained only with a correct balance of nutrients.

The amount of fertilizer to apply will depend to some extent on the available soil moisture. On non-irrigated, dry muck land areas it is probable that no more than one thousand pounds of 2-8-16 per acre can be utilized by a potato crop.

On other areas where water control is effected by seepage irrigation, or other means, a profitable response may be obtained from applications up to two thousand pounds per acre; providing climatic conditions are satisfactory.

On the muck land areas of Southwestern Quebec, crops of four hundred to five hundred bushels per acre are being consistently obtained with applications of fifteen hundred pounds of 2-8-16 per acre.

Furthermore, potatoes from this region are in strong demand on the wholesale markets and meet with ready sale.

Newcomer To Make

HOLLYWOOD.—A 22-year-old Mexican youth who has never been in a motion picture, recently was given an important role in Pine-Thomas' "Outrage," Paramount release about modern mob violence. He will share top roles with co-stars Gail Russell and Macdonald Carey.

The youth is Lalo Rios, born in San Miguelito, Mexico. He was moved to Los Angeles in 1936 with his parents. Last year he joined a youth club and appeared in a historical play centred around the history of Los Angeles.

Joseph Losey, who is directing "Outrage," saw the play and arranged for an interview with Producers Pine and Thomas. He was signed for the part without even a test.

A Nickel's Not Enough

CLAYTON, Mo.—In a divorce petition filed in Circuit Court here, Fred H. Becker, a machinist, alleged that his wife, Theresa, forced him to wash dishes, clean the house, mop the floors and wash his own clothes. In addition to having to do all the housework, Becker said his wife took all of his pay and gave him only a nickel a day for a cup of coffee.

'Christmas Music
By Bach, Handel

For a great many people the music of Bach and Handel make difficult listening — until Christmas comes around. Then, suddenly, everybody starts singing and humming tunes by the two old masters.

The reason for this is that both Bach and Handel were church musicians. One of their tasks was to compose songs for church congregations to sing. They proved themselves masters of beautiful, easily followed melodies in their Christmas music. Our most famous Christmas oratorios and carols came from Bach and Handel.

"How Brightly Beams the Morning Star" was composed by Bach and his "Christmas Oratorio" contains the themes of several other popular chorales.

In almost every town and village in America this Christmas a church choir will render at least a portion of George Frederick Handel's the "Messiah." When carolers sing "Joy to the World" they'll be singing part of the "Messiah" too, for that carol comes from themes found in the great oratorio. Handel also composed the musical theme of "While Shepherds Watched Their Flocks."

It is a strange fact, but both Bach and Handel were born in 1685, lived for many years within thirty miles of each other, and never met. Yet today, the Christmas music they wrote is sung by men, women and children in countless churches of many faiths all over the world.

Flowers Are Part Of Yule Legends

There are several flowers appropriate during the Yuletide season which are connected with the birth of Christ by the legends of history. Sainfoin, or "Holy Hay," is said to have cradled the infant Christ in the manger. The snowdrop is the flower of the Virgin Mary, and is said to be the emblem of the candles she lighted on Christmas.

According to legend, the Christmas rose was divinely created. A shepherd maid wept at having no gift to lay before the Babe in the manger. Suddenly an angel appeared to her. On hearing why the maiden wept, the angel touched the ground where her tears had fallen and immediately the place was white with Christmas roses, which the maid gathered and laid in the manger.

The chrysanthemum is said to have appeared first on Christmas Eve near the manger as a sign to the Wise Men that they had reached the spot where the star had bidden them.

Parents Can Spoil
Children's Play

Here's a Christmas resolution for parents. It's one that ought to be made before New Year's resolutions are even considered. It goes, "I will keep my hands off the children's toys all day on Christmas."

It'll be a hard one to keep because Mother likes to fuss with Ann's doll. She pretends she is showing Ann how to put on the bonnet, but she's actually having a grand time playing. And once Father gets his hands on the train, or the auto that winds up, the boys can't get near them.

It isn't fair. The children are crying for a little peace and freedom. After all, adults can play with toys for the next 364 days if they want to.

Denmark has 203,536 motor vehicles, operating—slightly more than in 1919.
